WHAT IS TEN THOUSAND VILLAGES?

Ten Thousand Villages is an alternative trade organization that markets handicrafts made by unemployed and underemployed artisans around the world. Our mission is to provide vital, fair income to the artisans with whom we work, empowering them to contribute to their communities, improve housing and provide food, education and healthcare for their families.

Ten Thousand Villages has been working with artisans by marketing their handicrafts and telling their stories since 1946. We believe that fair trade is important. We offer advances of up to 50 percent as working capital to artisans and pay in full as soon as an order is shipped to us. We apply principles of solidarity and justice when we purchase the unique and diverse collection of handicrafts we sell in our stores. Last year, fair trade with Ten Thousand Villages benefitted tens of thousands of artisans in more than 30 countries.

Ten Thousand Villages is a nonprofit program of Mennonite Central Committee, a relief, service and peace agency of the North American Mennonite and Brethren in Christ churches. We value the vital work of volunteers who are an integral part of our operations. Thousands of volunteers in Canada and the United States work with Ten Thousand Villages in our offices and warehouses or at stores in their home communities.

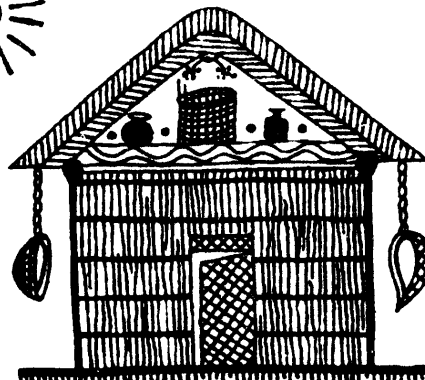

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Ten Thousand Villages managers and assistant managers depend on volunteers who help with the daily operation of the store. Volunteers are trained in a variety of tasks from assisting customers with cash register sales and unpacking or repairing handicrafts, to recruiting new volunteers. See back of application for a complete list of opportunities.

Volunteers build cultural understanding and form an important link between customers and artisans, by learning about the handicrafts and telling the stories of the artisans who make these beautiful products.

The management team plans and coordinates the volunteer schedule. Store volunteers usually work one four-hour shift once or twice a month, although they may work more or less often as their schedule permits.
